Greetings from the Organizing Committee

It gives us immense pleasure and privilege to extend our cordial invitation to you for the upcoming “one day National Symposium on Recent Trends in Computational Intelligence”, which will be held on 15th June, 2017 at Department of Computer Science, University of Gour Banga, Malda, WB. On this occasion we will eagerly wait to have your active presence and Participation. We earnestly hope that the Symposium will lead to lively exchange of ideas and will be a grand success.

Objective of the Symposium

The present era of human civilization is greatly dependent on automation. Over time the characteristic of automation is also undergoing transformation with more and more emphasis on automated systems which may behave in "Intelligent" manner at least to a meaningful extent. The focus has been on making a computing system "Intelligent". The initiative started few decades ago with the advent and gradual crystallization of Artificial Intelligence whose fundamental inspiration was the natural intelligence that human beings are equipped with. Subsequently the research initiative of the concerned research community got oriented towards converting a computing system "Intelligent" by imparting the ingredients of Artificial Intelligence in it. With adequate "Machine Learning" the civilization started becoming empowered with "Machine Intelligence". Now the level of automation has reached a stage where a machine responsible to carry out computation behaves intelligently in no nonsense terms. This is achieved over a long time as a result of serious research effort. The computational aspect to deal with such issues of intelligence operative a separate research domain has unfolded over the years - Computational Intelligence. It has become a formidable agenda to know as to what are the building blocks of Computational Intelligence.
